Overview:

- Go West Summit gathers international and receptive tour operators and travel agencies that focus on offering tours to the American West made up of a 13 state region to international clients. These tour operators specialize in group travel, FIT, and fly/drive programs.
- 550 attended Go West Summit. Over 50 Chinese and Korean tour operators.
- Glacier Country was matched with 23 buyers for 12 minute appointments.
- 165 tour operators/travel agencies/receptive operators attended.
- Increased our database with 11 first time appointments.
- Next Go West Summit: Anchorage, AK – February 22-25, 2016.

Trends:

- First time international travelers are drawn to the well-known places: New York, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Disneyland. On their second and third visits they are showing strong interest in the National Parks. Yellowstone is the most well known as their concessionaire has been selling internationally for years.
- International visitors are attracted to Montana for our wildlife viewing, wide open spaces, soft adventure, our unique culture that includes lodging and activities.
- Go West was heavily attended by Chinese and South Korea tour operators this year.
- Younger customers (20-40 years) are coming to tour operators asking for adventure, more independence (don't make everyone do the same thing at the same time).

Recommendations for 2015:

- This was my recommendation for 2014: Educate our member partners on international tourism, and make them aware of cultural customs that they should be aware of before hosting an international group. Their customs have tended to offend other guests so knowing that in advance or placing them in appropriate space and time will be advantageous to all visitors. MTOT held a Welcoming the Chinese Visitor workshop in Kalispell.
- Recognize the developing need for multi-lingual step on guides.
- Work with the state office on multi-lingual promotional materials.
